One-day session focused on turbine operators and technical staff

This one-day, free MS Teams webinar is intended to give the user a good understanding of the Peak 200, its applications and its parameters / setting and capability.

The seminar is intended to give the attendee an opportunity to learn more about the control's features, benefits and implementations.

The session is being offered by Madsen's turbine control experts. A Q & A session following the presentation is intended to clarify real-world questions and answers surrounding the Peak and control of small turbines.
